REALTORS TO GIVE CITY'S ADVANTAGES

March Issue of Union Pacific Paper for This City

GREAT CIRCULATION

Will Reach 100,000 People
Whose Eyes Are Turned This Way

The Glendale Realty Board has agreed to take the March issue of "The Arrowhead," the publication of the Union Pacific Railroad. Between 35,000 and 40,000 copies are issued monthly, and are distributed free to everyone who travels on the Union Pacific railroad. It also goes to the stations along the route, and to the agents of the railroad company.

It is estimated that the March issue will reach at least 100,000 persons who are coming to California or who are considering doing so. In this issue will be Glendale reading matter only. There will be street scenes and illustrations of the various prominent buildings. Everything in the issue will serve to boost Glendale.

The Glendale Realty Board has guaranteed to raise $1000 to "put over" this issue. This, it is understood, will in no way pay for the entire edition. All of the material will be furnished by the Glendale Realty Board.

BOY BANDIT TAKES FOUR BITS FROM ANOTHER LAD

Youngster Will Be Caller at Chief Martin's Office Today

The latest thing in bandits has been discovered in Glendale. It is the third-grade bandit. Monday afternoon, Mrs. A. J. Ortiz, 715 North Louise street, sent her small son to the city hall to pay a light and water bill. He had a $5 bill and the amount of the two bills was $4.50. After leaving the city hall the boy started home clutching the 50-cent piece in his hand, proud to think that he had been trusted with such an important errand.

A small boy approached him and asked if he had money. The Ortiz boy answered that he did but it belonged to his mother. "I am going to hold you up," said the small stranger to young Ortiz, and he did. He took the half-dollar and made his escape. The juvenile holdup was reported to the police by Mrs. Ortiz, with the information that her son knows the boy. The lad was located and will call on Chief Martin this afternoon.

IRISH DEATHS IN YEAR SHOW DROP

DUBLIN, Jan. 24.—In 1921 the average rate of death per thousand in Ireland was the lowest on record, despite the fact that a guerrilla war was raging from Cork in the south to Antrim in the north.

The total number recorded was 66,538, or 14.8 per 1000 of the population. Of these, 1851 were due to violence, 1322 were killed in combat between the crown forces and the Irish republican party, and more than ninety were killed in their beds in the reprisals campaign. Strange though it may seem, considering all the circumstances, only one case of suicide was recorded in the whole twelve months.

WANT LINDBERG.
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Further attempts will be made immediately to return Jafet Lindberg, former director of the Scandinavian-American bank, Tacoma, it was announced at the governor's office today. Communications have been received from the district attorney of Pierce county, Washington, stating that a new case against the banker is being prepared. Lindberg is now in San Francisco.

NORRIS IS PASSED UP BY WALLACE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senate leaders of the agricultural bloc were commenting today on the fact that Senator Norris, Nebraska, chairman of the senate agricultural committee, was not invited to the agricultural conference by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Representative Haugen, Iowa, chairman of the house agricultural committee, was invited.

Hitch Your Energy to Something Says Mr. Foley Tonight

Get your energy harnessed to something, advises James W. Foley tonight in "The Listening Post," that wonderful philosophical feature that is an exclusive feature of this newspaper.

Hitch it to something, says Foley. And if you hitch it to a star he tells you to be sure to be in the wagon when it starts starward.

There's something rather refreshing in the manner in which Mr. Foley puts across his ideas. There is always inspiration to be found in them, always good solid logic, always a punch and sometimes that punch almost lands on the reader's nose.

Henry James takes a rap in his comments on the news of the day on the flippancy about which marriages are treated by writers. "Introduced, wooed, won, baptized and wed, all in less than 24 hours!" That's the sentence that started Mr. James to apply the shingle.

Dr. Frank James writes of the erection of a monument to an authority on cooking. John Pilgrim writes on suburban life and the usual well written and ably edited features round out a page that carries the latest thought in its editorials.

It will do you a world of good to read the editorial page of this newspaper each evening. You will profit by it—that we guarantee.

Neale, plans are being made to send 50 automobiles loaded with Shriners and the delegation will stop in all of the cities on the way to boost Glendale. The delegates will travel as a caravan through all of the principal coast cities.

CHIEF MARTIN IS OWNER OF NEW CAR

Chief Martin of the Glendale police department is the owner of a nice, new, shiny car of a popular make. The name of the car is a secret, for that would be free advertising, but it is permissible to say that he bought the car from Jesse Smith. Now guess what make car it is. Since the chief got his new car everyone is happy. The chief is happy because he can start out on all four cylinders, and Jesse Smith is happy because—well, just because. Honk, honk! Gangway!

MINISTER IS GIVEN $800 VERDICT

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Jan. 24.—Rev. N. F. Kile, former pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at New Hope and Alban, was awarded $800 damages by a jury from members of his former flock today.

Rev. Kile sued for $25,000 alleging that members of his congregation caused him to be suspended from the ministry and charging that as a result it caused him to be "held up to the public's scorn" and "ridiculed and humiliated."

NEW PLANT WILL BE ERECTED HERE BY MACHINE WORKS

Site Secured and $25,000
Plant Will Be Erected
Soon

The Power Implement Machine Works of Modesto, has purchased from Harry White, Inc. a piece of ground having a frontage of 191 feet on San Fernando road, 401 1/2 feet on Glendale avenue, and 113 feet on Forest avenue. The purchase of this property was consummated this week.

As soon as plans and specifications can be prepared this company will begin the construction plant which will cost at least $25,000. This building will be made of brick and glass and in design will carry out the effect used in the constructions of the buildings of the Harry White, Inc. Everything possible will be done to relieve this plant of the appearance of a manufacturing establishment.

This company manufactures a number of different articles, among which is the Zanon mower, which may be used in the connection with any tractor that is on the market today; and a piston clamp, which is the only thing of its kind manufactured. At its Modesto plant this company turns out 500 of these clamps each week. The Glendale plant will turn out 1000 of these clamps each week.

It is the intention of this company to move its entire plant to Glendale as soon as the building is ready to receive it. When in operation this company will employ at least 75 people. This company will do all kinds of machine work, a specialty being made of cylinder grinding. Any piece of machinery for any tractor will be duplicated at this plant.

The building of this new plant will start, it is expected, within 30 days and the grand opening will be held within three months. J. J. Ferlin is president of the Power Implement Machine works. He was born in Los Angeles and has lived in California all his life.

FIRST NATIONAL AID TO SOLDIER

Officers and Workers
Chip in With $21 Fund
for Hero

There are 21 people employed in the First National bank of Glendale, including officers. These 21 people are happier today than they were a week ago, for they have contributed to the happiness of someone else who is not blessed with good health at this time.

When the Glendale Daily Press announced that an ex-service man who fought in France was in immediate need of funds to care for his little family, the response was spontaneous. It didn't take long for the people to prevent the brave young man from worrying and when he was furnished the funds and other things the good people supplied, he was made to understand and asked to remember that the response was not charity, but in a small way the payment of a debt by the people of this country.

Of them, who stayed at home when he went away to fight, for what they owe him.

The good people at the First National bank sent a check to Capt. Thos. D. Watson, chairman of the relief committee of the American Legion post of Glendale, representing $1 each from every officer and employee in that flourishing institution.

If there is someone else, or some other institution that follows the lead of the First National bank, the funds will be welcome and will do much to relieve a tense situation.

MOVIE DIRECTOR IS AMBUSHED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Paul Kramer, movie director, is dying, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Bannan, is in central station as the result of an ambush shooting in Hollywood last night. Kramer said that his wife had gone to a downtown show following an argument over a pair of shoes. Her failure to return home at an early hour caused him to look for her in the neighborhood. The 20-year-old wife was questioned by the police, but later released, and her mother ordered held. Kramer received four of five shots in the head.

$200,000 IS HER BILL FOR SPURNED LOVE

CHICAGO—Charging breach of promise, Miss Mary Lygo, former Follies beauty, has filed suit against Gordon C. Thorne, millionaire, of this city, for $200,000. She seeks a similar amount from his mother, Mrs. William Camp, whom she charges with slander. Miss Lygo, just from the hospital after her second attempt at suicide for love of Thorne, based the suit on Thorne's statement that he will not wed her out of respect for the wishes of his mother. Under the Illinois laws he would be unable to marry anyone until next June, a year from the time he was divorced by Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne, society beauty. In her suit against Mrs. Camp she charges she was called a "vampire" and accused of "dragging Thorne down, down, down." Miss Lygo's association with Thorne became known last spring, when she slashed her wrists with a razor on learning that he had a dinner engagement with another girl. Shortly afterward he was divorced and charged with drunkenness. He is now in Florida.

Besides influenza, bronchitis is unduly prevalent with other diseases of the respiratory tract, including pneumonia. Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner said.

DRY LEADER DUELS IN WORDS WITH A REPORTER

Comedy in One Act Was Staged in Bay City
Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—E. C. Yellowley, leader of the prohibition enforcement "flying squadrons" didn't tell in an interview today how he would close up illicit liquor traffic in California.

Yellowley arrived yesterday and today was laying his plans to do something known chiefly to himself.

"How are you going to close 3000 blindpigs in San Francisco?" he was asked by a reporter who didn't know how many blindpigs there really were.

"Really, I don't know," he replied. "Are there that many blindpigs here? Goodness gracious."

"Where would you put the bootleggers if you arrested them?" came the next question.

"Really, I haven't given it any thought," he answered.

"What about Harry Braski?" the reporter queried, recalling San Francisco's first prohibition shakeup of which Braski was the storm center.

"Well, what did become of Harry Braski, anyway?" asked Yellowley.

"Is prohibition a success?" gasped the reporter, trying again.

"Oh, yes."

"Here?"

"I suppose so."

"Where is whisky coming from?" "I can't say. The country is really dry. You'd be surprised."

Whereupon the reporter gave up, believing that maybe Yellowley didn't want to tell all he knew about liquor and such things.

SHOOTS BOY WHEN SHOOTING CRAPS

Officer Says Boy Attempted to Make His Escape
When Shot

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Following orders of Chief of Police Everington to "clamp down the lid" on vice and gambling, Patrolman W. E. Cunningham late last night fired upon a group of boys shooting craps on his beat.

One boy, William Bunk, 16, is in the hospital with a severely wounded leg as the result. Many other arrests followed throughout the night, in an effort to carry out the chief's orders.

Cunningham declared he shot Bunk when the latter attempted to escape while waiting for the patrol wagon to arrive after he had been arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Although E. C. Yellowley plans to make a "cleanup" of San Francisco, he indicated, and then go to Los Angeles for a similar purpose, after which he will pay his respects to the remainder of the state as necessary.

EXPRESS IS FAVORABLE TO NEW PLAN

Mrs. John Robert White
Receives Letter from Editor

HOPE FOR SUCH RULE

In Response to Request
From P. T. A. in Glendale

Some time ago the Parent-Teacher Federation of this city addressed letters to daily newspapers of Los Angeles, asking them to minimize details of crime in their published reports because of the effect of these details on young people in the homes wherein the papers are read.

Mrs. John Robert White, president of the organization, reports a most courteous response from the Los Angeles Express, as follows:

"Dear Mrs. White: Recently we received a letter from a number of women of your city asking the co-operation of the press in the elimination of unwholesome details of crime. The subject is one that has the very earnest support of the Express in a recent editorial on the subject. I hope that in the not distant future the public sentiment will compel all newspapers to eliminate from their columns much of the crime detail that is now occupying so large a space in practically every issue."

"I am extremely glad to know that the women of your city are actively interested in this subject."

"With kind regards, I am, sincerely yours, (Signed) "E. A. DICKSON,
"Editor Los Angeles Express."

READS ARBUCKLE'S TESTIMONY INTO RECORD TODAY

Newspaper Man Said Defendant Told Different Story

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Courtroom spectators may be robbed of the thrill of hearing Roscoe Arbuckle give his personal version for a second time of his Labor day party and the events which led up to the death of Virginia Rappe, with responsibility for which he is charged.

The defense admitted today that the action of the state in starting to read into the transcript of Arbuckle's testimony at the first trial into the record of the second trial, may result in a decision not to call Arbuckle as his own star witness.

The state started reading the transcript late yesterday, after taking testimony of a newspaper reporter who had talked to Arbuckle before the comedian first came to San Francisco the day following Miss Rappe's death. The state desired to show alleged discrepancies between the story the reporter said Arbuckle told him and Arbuckle's story told from the witness stand.

GENEROSITY WAS SHOWN TO ASS'N.

One cause for the satisfaction experienced by the members of the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations in connection with the benefit card party given Monday at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, president of the organization, is the discovery of their friends who manifested their sympathy with the work of the federation in practical ways. J. Herbert Smith, for example, contributed most generously supplies needed for refreshments. Joseph H. Folz printed the tickets without charge and others helped in a variety of ways.

KILL RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The senate today killed the Walsh resolution asking for information as to what progress the arms conference had made on the Shantung question. The resolution which called on the state department to furnish information and was the cause of a sharp debate in the senate recently was defeated without a record vote.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

THE RED DOG WON'T BE MANAGED

By JOHN BARTON.

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Yes, Maltie Kitten had certainly disappeared. But not into Tad Coon's hole. He had bounced out of the hickory at one leap, raced around the end of Dr. Muskrat's Pond and gone bounding off through the snow. For he'd seen more than the red dog's man. He'd seen Tommy Peele and Tommy Peele's father and Louie Thompson all starting down the lane quite a little way behind him.

"I haven't a minute to lose," he worried as he ran. "If Louie and the man who chases the red dog are going to meet down at the Pond it should be there, too, to do its choosing. I must bring it back in time. I must! I must!"

He put out his claws to stop himself from sliding. For stop he did. He had run upon a string of footprints. They were fresh and warm. "Red dog! Red dog!" he began to call as he followed them.

Fresh? I should say they were.

For the red dog had turned aside when he heard the very same sound that started Maltie running. He was cowering in a little dark snuggery beneath three young trees. They were their branches so close together you would never have suspected they were hiding any one, except for that trail.

"Red dog!" exclaimed the pussy in surprise. "Whatever are you doing here? I thought you'd be waiting for me way back at the cabin."

"No," said the dog. "I told you I simply must find Dr. Muskrat's Pond. I must know my fortune."

"I'll tell you!" Maltie exclaimed excitedly. "I'm kind of mixed up on the first part, but that doesn't matter—it's all lived and done. It was 'Thrice, now free, may I choose who will give me a home?' Dr. Muskrat says that means the third time you come to the Pond you can say who you'll belong to."

Your man is there already and Louie will be by the time we get there, so come along."

"I'm not coming," growled the dog stubbornly.

"But you must!" argued Maltie.

He Was Cowering in a Little, Dark Snuggery Beneath Three Young Pine Trees.

"There! He's whistling for you now. You haven't a minute to waste."

"That isn't the way Louie whistles!"

"Of course not. It's the other way."

EDITORIALS

By the People

Editor Glendale Press: As the owner of my home in Glendale I am, of course, very much interested in the matter of sewage disposal. The idea presented herein is not original with me, except as to place of application; but it has been endorsed by sanitary engineers of both federal and state governments. And bulletins containing all data regarding it have been published by the U. S. department of agriculture and also our state experiment station. It is nothing more nor less than a small septic tank for the country home. If the idea is practical for the country home it should be just as one. But Louie'll be there," Maltie insisted. "Hurry! Quick! Come!"

"No. I'm not coming. I said I'd never answer any one again except Louie Thompson. When he calls I'll come. If he doesn't I won't, no matter what happens."

"Then you'll lose your chance to choose!" wailed Maltie. For that's what it looked like to him.

feasible for our suburban homes, especially so in the city of Glendale where the sub-soils are of such character that adequate drainage from the tank can be readily obtained at minimum expense.

By using this system for our residence sections we would eliminate the expense of sewer lines in many miles of streets and the cost of connecting up each residence; and also eliminate cost of obtaining and maintaining several hundred acres of exceedingly valuable land to take care of sewage, and pumps to carry it to the point of disposal, inasmuch as there is no available site which could be reached by gravity flow from all sections of the city.

INFORMAL RECEPTION BY BUSINESS WOMEN

Thursday evening of the present week the Business and Professional Women's club will hold an informal reception when it will throw open to inspection by the general public its club headquarters in the apartment at 208½ South Brand boulevard.

Knowing that it has many friends in the community who would be glad to get better acquainted, and to find out where it has its habitat, the club has decided to hold an open house on the night mentioned.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN SOCIAL REALM

A record of the important functions of the week should begin with the card party for which Mrs. John Robert White opened her beautiful home on North Orange street Monday afternoon, as a benefit for the Parent-Teacher federation, which was a brilliant social and financial success.

Another big affair is to be held tonight in the dinner given in the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce by the Business and Professional Women's club, for which about 200 reservations have been made.

Thursday evening there will be a big reception for new members at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

Friday evening the big Boy Scout banquet will be held at the chamber of commerce banquet hall, for which reservations have been made for 250.

MAKING COMFORTS EL RETIRO HOME

The chairman of the juvenile court committees of the various Parent-Teacher associations in Glendale are meeting today at the home of Mrs. Hartley Shaw, 212 West Park avenue. They will make 12 comforts for the El Retiro home at San Fernando.

The home is also in need of jardineres and plant dishes to make it look more like home. If anyone has anything they wish to donate, they can be left at the home of Mrs. Shaw, 212 West Park avenue, or phone Glendale 1293-R and she will call for them.

MRS. CLEOPHAS IS HOSTESS AT DINNER

Mrs. E. D. Cleophas of 337 North Central avenue, entertained at a mid-day dinner and for the afternoon Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bjoreg, from Mason City, Iowa, and their relatives and hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Dally of Santa Ana.

Mr. Bjoreg has come to California on account of his health and is looking for a business location. He and his wife were very favorably impressed with Glendale.

K. K. KLUB MET ON MONDAY

Members of the K. K. Klub met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Harlow Harrison on West Lomita avenue. At a business session plans were discussed for the Valentine party which the club plans to give February 13.

Following the session an informal social hour was enjoyed. Members present were Misses Margaret McPherson, Miriam Rich, Alice Lookabaugh, Ruth Sanford, Marian Griggs, Dorothy Hamilton, Murray Longley and the hostess.

CAVE WOMAN IS SEEKING BITER

Nina Lane McBride Says She Wants Man With Teeth

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Tall, blonde men with clefts in their chins and strong teeth are warned by Mrs. Nina Lane McBride, writer and daughter of the late United States Senator Lane of Oregon, that she is "a wild cave woman" and may use stone age methods to control her "vital mate."

Nina has created a furor in Greenwich village by announcing she seeks a "vital mate" who, she specifies, must be a "real cave man, tall blonde and with a cleft in his chin and two strong arms."

He must hold her in those two strong arms and "smother her with kisses and bites," Nina declares. "There are bites and bites," she said, "I refer to the colorful bites you know what I mean, bites that send electric thrills through one."

Nina has already a "vital mate," but he is only her husband. Anyway, he has found a "vital mate" of his own and that, as Nina explained, rather leaves her out in the cold.

He is Isaac McBride, a handsome, tall, dark young man who writes and lectures. He is Nina's second husband.

"My first," she said, "was a business man, and I did not love him. After I divorced him I married my mental husband. I owe my sophistication to him."

"Now I yearn for a third mate, a wonderful cave man. I want a man who is seared and scorched with life and living, who has broken hearts and fought in wars."

"I'm a wild cave woman. I have the blood of Indian chiefs in my veins. Maybe—I am seriously thinking of it—I shall do as the ladies of the stone age used to do and go out and seize my vital mate."

She was born and educated in Portland, Ore., where she met and married McBride.

TRUSTEES TO MEET WITH ARCHITECTS

This afternoon the trustees of Glendale high school will meet and give a hearing to the last of the list of architects who have asked for interviews relative to the new high school plants. After this hearing board members will visit schools for which the applying architects furnished the plans and they hope by the first of next week to decide which architectural firm they will employ. Some of the local architects have associated themselves with Los Angeles firms that have specialized in school construction. George M. Lindsey, for example, is associated with John C. Austin, and Alfred F. Priest with Norman F. Marsh.

Dr. Russell Speaks.—Dr. Jessie Russell will be the speaker at the meeting of the City Teachers' club which will be held this afternoon at Intermediate. Her theme will be, "Value of Organization."

At your very best!

"Worth while, isn't it? to appear always with a well-groomed skin and hair."

"A compliment to the fineness and perfect taste of any woman, to be cleanly and neat in habits."

"Those whom Marinello beauty methods serve are assured of our competent efforts, thorough and anxious to please."

Parent-Teacher Federation Jubilant Over Card Party

Officers of the Parent-Teacher Federation, particularly the president, Mrs. John Robert White, were jubilant Monday evening over the success of the card party for which Mrs. White opened her home on that day. Requests for reservations poured in thick and fast at the last and 35 tables had to be prepared for the 140 players who presented themselves.

Bridge, Five Hundred and Bunko were the diversions, and the contestants were divided into sixteen groups, the making high score in each group receiving a prize.

Ten of the prizes were donated by merchants of the city who were most generous in the quality of their gifts, and as a result every trophy was very much worth while.

The Gordon Shop gave white silk stockings; the Irish Linen Store a beautiful towel; Arthur Diberni, the jeweler, a handsome silver olive spoon; Neale & Gregg Hardware Store, a fine vase; the Williams Store, a boudoir cap; Webb's Store, a pair of brown silk stockings; Cornwell & Kelly, a nice pair of scissors; the Whitaker Drug Store, a bottle of choice toilet water; David Crofton, cozy toe slippers; Roberts & Eckles, another bottle of rare toilet water.

Bridge prize winners were: Mesdames J. L. Flint, William Moore, George Mitchell, Gerald Blue, A. M. Beaumont, R. A. Puffer, Sr., R. A. Puffer, Jr., and Mrs. Fonk.

Mrs. Wilbur Herwig and son, Rondon, of Philadelphia, Pa., arrived in Glendale Sunday morning and are located with Mrs. Herwig's daughter, Mrs. Mary Sands, of 345 West Burchett street. Mr. Herwig will arrive here in about two months and they expect to make Glendale their home.

GRIN'S AND GROANS

See by the papers there is danger of another flu epidemic in New York. No danger to anyone if they take care of their bodies and quit eating combinations that would make a well dog think his stomach was the business end of a volcano.

Mr. Arbuckle, the most "finished" screen actor of the generation, told a different story to a newspaper man about that Rappe incident, it appears. Even so, we sort of wish Tom Woolwine could go up to the Bay City and finish up the state's case.

Understand the state medical board is going to allow chiropractors to practice when duly qualified. But it was a hard rub for "docs" at that.

We almost weep when we read what the tobacco people say about their inability at this time to reduce the price of cigars and cigarettes. Sniff, sniff.

We continue to maintain that we think that Mary Garden, lady at the head of the Chicago opera parade, is a woman who, when her foot goes down, the gong sounds, ala samee street car motor gentleman.

"Nature doctor says that if more people would quit eating red meat, the divorce courts would have a rest. Good night. Women have been trying for generations to promote harmony by feeding the beasts, and now the nature doc tells them they are all wrong."

"Movie Director Shot From Ambush," says newspaper headline. Proves people should avoid approaching ambushes and stick to the open road.

DEATHS

HENRY ROEDER. Henry Roeder, who has been a resident of Glendale for the past eight years, died at his home, 344 North Maryland, January 23 at the age of 57 years. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Sophie Roeder, one son, C. L. Roeder, who lives at 312 Colorado boulevard, and three daughters, Mrs. F. W. Reed of Glendale, Mrs. P. M. Weaver of Paso Robles, and Miss Elsa Roeder who resides at the Roeder home on Maryland. Henry Roeder was the eldest son of the pioneer, Lewis Roeder, and was born in Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company with interment in Grand View.

MRS. ANNA HARTLEY. Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Hartley who died at her home, 412 North Kenwood Sunday night, will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company with interment in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

RICHARD K. FENTON. Funeral services for Richard Patrick Fenton, ex-service man who died Friday night, January 20 at Thornycroft, were held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Holy Family Catholic church. Pallbearers were his comrades at Thornycroft and included Patrick McBryde, Richard Jansma, J. J. Hechig, William Bland, L. W. Hoge and Fred Strombom. Burial took place at Calvary cemetery in Los Angeles. Mr. Fenton leaves a brother, Joe Fenton, who resides at Redland, and he will be greatly missed by his comrades and friends.

JOHN O. ELLIOTT. John O. Elliott of 408 Ivy street passed away Monday, January 23, at the Foresters' sanitarium in Lopez canyon, at the age of 61 years. He leaves to mourn his death a wife, Mrs. Ella Elliott and four children, Ruth, Mildred and John Elliott, all of Glendale, and Paul Elliott of Hollywood. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the chapel of the L. G. Scovern company. The order of Odd Fellows will be in charge. Rev. C. R. Norton officiating. Interment at Grand View cemetery.

The ladies who were successful at Five Hundred were: Mrs. Waller, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Cann, Mrs. John Roman, Mrs. Lepper, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. A. L. Beard, Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Jr.

The prizes outside of those donated by the merchants were either given by friends of the organization or purchased out of association funds.

At the close of play refreshments of coffee, sandwiches and Nabisco wafers were served.

Yellow marguerites were used in decoration, and the hostess was given a delightful surprise by her husband, who sent out new curtains for the downstairs floor, without having said a word to her about it, and these arrived in time to be hung for the party.

Mrs. White is most appreciative of the splendid work done by the ladies who came forward voluntarily and assisted her during the party. Mrs. C. H. Thompson, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Percy Praelux, Mrs. W. Thompson, Mrs. Eustace B. Young, Mrs. E. J. Johnston and others.

It seems probable at this writing that the association will clear in the neighborhood of $125, which will be a welcome addition to its treasury. As it is to entertain the District Federation Conference April 4 and to have other financial demands to cover, the money is most acceptable.

New Homes.—Work will be started immediately by the Edwards & Wildey company on two beautiful 6-room stucco homes on their Kenneth Terrace tract, corner Pacific and Columbus. These homes will be right up to the minute in every particular and will be sold when completed.

Columbus Wins.—Girls of Columbus Avenue school defeated girls of Pacific Avenue in a track meet pulled off Monday afternoon, the score reading 70½ points for Columbus against 47½ for Pacific.

Try-outs.—The end of the try-outs in inter-school track meets will be held Wednesday afternoon when Central Avenue, Cerritos and Doran athletes will meet in competition.

BEFORE GRAND JURY. WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The case of Charles W. Morse, New York financier for alleged fraudulent conspiracy in dealings with the shipping board and emergency fleet corporation, was placed before the grand jury by District Attorney Gordon.

PERSHING DECLINES. WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—General John J. Pershing has declined to accept a distinguished service cross for his services in the Philippines. He insisted that to do so would belittle the award to many men for services in the A. E. F.

Constructive Hammer Heard In All Parts of Glendale

Contractors and Builders as Well as Builders' Supply Houses Find January an Exceptionally Active Month in This City

There is no let-up to building activities and real estate sales in Glendale, notwithstanding January is always considered a very quiet month and there is usually a big slump in all lines of business. Every carpenter and mechanic is busy, and plumbers and electricians have been unable to take care of the work given them.

Contracting

J. J. Burke, formerly owner of the Little Mill on San Fernando road, has sold his business and entered the contracting game. He is at present building three store rooms on South Brand, adjoining Wm. P. Murphy's furniture store. He also has a great deal of other work under way.

Boosting Eagle Rock

Elsewhere on this page the Kroehle Realty company is advertising Eagle Rock lots, and advising the wise buyer to take advantage of the now low prices on good lots in that section. "Remember," says Mr. Kroehle, "the history of low-priced property in Glendale. A few years ago it could be bought for a song; now it is worth real money. Watch Eagle Rock grow." And many people are of the same opinion as Mr. Kroehle.

Lumbermen and Architects

The Glendale Lumber company reports business very active, and says that it is supplying the lumber for many new homes.

George M. Lindsey company, architects, are working a large force of men on plans for many new dwellings about to be built, and report that there is no let-up to the demand for plans.

H. D. Charlton has prepared plans for another new business block on Brand, the full details of which will be given soon.

The Fox-Woodsum Lumber company have put on extra men to take care of the demand for lumber at their yards. Their motto is: "Service," and they are certainly living up to it, for there is an army of men and a stream of teams working at their Glendale yards on the east side.

The Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company have called in much extra help to take care of the increased demand for lumber. Their business is increasing right along, which indicates that they are meeting every demand of the builder. They are one of the oldest and most reliable lumber concerns in this part of the state.

The Independent Lumber company reports another trainload of lumber and shingles has arrived at their yards on South San Fernando road, and that their business is increasing right along. The opening of several new subdivisions on the San Fernando road has had a tendency to create a greater demand than ever for lumber in that vicinity, and this is one of the reasons why there are two good lumber companies located on San Fernando road, namely, the Glendale and the Independent.

Hardware and Supplies
The Builders Hardware and Supply company at 633 East Broadway report this firm has been furnishing the hardware for numerous buildings, and that they have sold out more than once in many lines during the last month. All hardware men of the city report business good in the builders' line, and have a steady run of business.

Increases Its Force
The Glendale Sheet Metal works has been forced to increase the number of sheet metal workers at its plant during the last few weeks in order to take care of the heavy run of work it is having. "I am surprised at the steady increase in our business, even in January," said Capt. Thos. D. Watson, president and founder of the business, "and if the remainder of the year carries the same percentage of increase as the past month this year's business will far exceed that of last year."

New Factory

Homer Mead, contractor and builder, has under way the construction of a large concrete block building for the Burd Cookie company on North Geneva street, Glendale. The building will be 100 by 140, and when completed will be one of the most modern manufacturing plants in this section. The Burd Cookie company will put in new machinery and otherwise increase its business when it moves into its new building. Mr. Mead says he will have the building ready for occupancy within 30 days. Mr. Mead has been in business in Glendale for 13 years and has many good buildings to his credit.

R. J. East, another cement contractor, is doing much work in his line. He is a reliable cement contractor and has his office at 225 South Glendale avenue.

Hardwood Floors

"It seems like everybody wants hardwood floors these days," said Mr. Wilson of the Glendale Hardwood Flooring company, 304 East Broadway. "We have been working a large force of men on numerous jobs and are using up an enormous amount of hardwood lumber on the many jobs under way." This firm has the reputation of doing A-1 work and always has many jobs under way.

Branching Out

W. E. Clark, plumber, 618 East Broadway, is branching out and just now is doing a great deal of work in Los Angeles and Eagle Rock, besides numerous contracts in Glendale. He has also employed several more men during the last few days.

The Glendale Plumbing company is always busy. One of the big jobs just completed was the plumbing and installation of fixtures for the Gateway market on the south side. Mr. Sheehy, the manager, states there is no let-up in his line, and that his company has a lot of work under way, but is always ready to take care of new jobs.

W. E. Jernegan, Mr. Hunsberger, Carlisle Bros., and other Glendale plumbers report business good.

New People Here

"Many new people are coming to town," said LaMonte K. Mitchell, owner of the Buffalo Dye works, a new concern which has made it a point to look up new people coming into this city. "Our machines have been kept busy every minute," said Mr. Mitchell, "and you would be surprised to know that about every other person we meet has only been in Glendale a few weeks." The Buffalo Dye works is doing a good business, and is located on California and Brand.

Even the dyeing establishments can give us figures on the rapid influx of people to Glendale.

Completes Job

The Saunders Paint company has just completed the painting and decorating work in the Glen Inn, which is located in the Citizens building. It is one of the biggest jobs of painting done in the city, and is a creditable piece of work, reflecting much credit upon the good taste of Mr. Saunders.

Booster Supreme

Mr. Hooper, of Hooper & Downing, painters at 1407 East Colorado, is one of the real boosters for Glendale. He makes it a point to carry his booster spirit with him on every job of painting he secures, and he has been the means of locating several people in Glendale. Mr. Downing is a reliable painter, and a good workman.

F. U. Gates, who has been in inspector for the Southern California Gas company for the past year, and who has been in the gas range business for 20 years, has accepted a position with the Coker & Taylor Plumbing company, 209 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Gate's hobby is the Direct Action gas range. Of this range he said this morning:

"The Direct Action is without doubt the finest gas range on the market today. Its 18-inch oven is two inches larger than any other oven on the market, which makes it in reality an 'oversize' oven. There is no oven bottom to burn out. Biscuits started in a cold oven are done in 8 minutes in the Direct Action. This oven, when used in connection with the Lorraine heat regulator, cannot be surpassed."

COMPANY M GETS VICTORY MONDAY

Company M, Glendale national guard, did things to the basketball team from company C, Los Angeles, in the game at the high school gymnasium last night, the final score being 64 to 15. Everything went well for the Los Angeles boys until the game started, then they seemed to lose sight of the fact that they came to Glendale to retain the cup they won in the Los Angeles league.

The Glendale boys started to work on their guests from the first whistle, and before the visitors had scored a point Glendale piled up a total of 25 points. In the last five minutes of play Glendale increased its score by 14 points, showing that they are a "long-winded" bunch of ball tossers. The boys comprising the Glendale team were Dennison and Wilde, forwards; Jensen, center; W. McIver and T. McIver, guards. Jensen, as usual, was the star of the Glendale team.

A return game will be played either Monday or Wednesday evening of next week on the Los Angeles armory court.

Truths in Epigram

The blessing of earth is toil.—Van Dyke (1852)

The wrong way always seems the more reasonable.—Moore (1855)

No man is justified in doing evil on the ground of expediency.—Roosevelt (1858-1919).

There are some remedies worse than the disease.—Syms (42 B. C.).

GETTING A JURY

A venire of fifty-four, called in a Redlands case, was exhausted without having yielded one juror. Of the number, fifteen women were excused because of objection to the death penalty.

In many ways there has been demonstration that the method of selecting a jury is defective. Often it results in long and costly delay. Often the jurybox, as a direct effect of the system, is filled with citizens grossly incompetent. One of the present requirements for acceptance is ignorance. If there is an equation that ought to be regarded as disqualifying, it is precisely the ignorance that lawyers seem to select.

Jury duty is undertaken with reluctance. No wonder. Trials are permitted to drag to unconscionable length. Lawyers wrangle over meaningless points. Often evidence that should be admitted is barred out. If by accident it is introduced, and later the jury is instructed to ignore and forget it, the indignity of the experience is felt by all the jurors. They are placed under obligation to pretend not to know that which, indubitably, they do know.

When a citizen is summoned as a juror, he or she, if really competent, is likely to attempt to evade the irksome work. We are well aware that prejudice, or general unfitness on the part of some of the twelve, is likely to negative the influence of the jurors who are of the grade of intelligence really to be desirable. As a rule the desirable are not desired by the lawyers.

There is not a community lacking in jury material. It is possible to have some advance knowledge of a case, even to have discussed the case, and yet to be able to weigh evidence, understand law, and in every act as a juror, uphold both justice and the law. As a rule the good material is sedulously weeded out.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Congresswoman Robertson of Oklahoma is not popular with her sex. She will endeavor to be re-elected, but the chances do not favor her. Against her will be a large, possibly a solid, woman vote.

There is no difficulty in understanding the basis of the feminine disapproval that Mrs. Robertson has achieved. In the first place, she was opposed to having the ballot given to women. It did seem an anomalous thing that despite this circumstance, she should have been quick to receive political honors under the new regime. Evidently she does not think that any important part of her support came from the new voting element for even yet she has refrained from endorsing general suffrage.

A later offending of the lady, lies in her hostility to a political party of and for, women. Nevertheless there is an opinion widely prevalent, that in this respect Mrs. Robertson is right. The great mass of the polls, welcoming the presence of women at the polls, frank in admitting that the woman vote has been beneficial, would regard the formation of such a party as an expression of selfishness. They would not, and could not regard it as an effective agency for accomplishment of any desired purpose.

If women were to merge into existing parties, exactly as men do, they would have a vast influence. If they elect to flock by themselves they will incur the displeasure of male voters almost in entirety, and that of far-seeing women. They will set up a division wholly unnecessary, cripple the potency of the franchise they hold, and, politically speaking, get nowhere.

Many of them may dislike Mrs. Robertson, but it is possible that they would gain wisdom by heeding her words.

AN ABSURD FEDERAL ORDER

Sixty-five barrels of fortified wine, detained for a time at the Mexican border, has been released by federal order. The consignee lives at Tia Juana, and is said to make a quite adequate income by keeping a saloon.

The order that permitted the stuff to move stipulated that the wine was to be used for medicinal purposes. Of course there is no intent of so using it, nor thought on the part of the government that there is such intent.

If under the constitution as amended, the government is authorized to sanction the liquor business, there could be no legal objection advanced. If the release was proper, the officials might as well have been frank about it. However, in view of the remote possibility that they may be unaware of the character of Tia Juana, and the activities of a saloon, a little information may be due for their enlightenment.

People do not go to Tia Juana in quest of health. It is a resort for the robust rather than for the ailing. Saloonkeepers do not procure liquor with the idea of filling prescriptions. When they import stuff that has intoxicating potency, it means that they will sell it, and that somebody will pay a fancy price for the privilege of getting poisoned by it.

That eleven of the barrels marked "for non beverage purposes" were found upon arrival to contain nothing but water, made the legend stamped on the barrels fit the situation well. Water at Tia Juana mostly is regarded as for non-beverage use. However, doubtless the consignee failed to see the humor of it.

INTERNATIONAL COURTESIES

Some writers have condemned the paying of honors to the "Unknown Soldier." This is the soldier who, nameless, but elevated in death to high station, receives from his countrymen the public meed of praise. The adulation is full of meaning. It is in memory of the brave and patriotic soldiery of which the individual, borne in pomp, and laid to rest with reverent display, is the type.

Such ceremonies have taken place in England, France, the United States, and now in Italy. In each instance the tribute has been to all soldiers. France and England have laid wreaths upon the tombs of American dead. American troops were present in Italy when the unknown hero there received the final encomium of his people. The address of the American ambassador on that occasion was splendid in its note of brotherhood, accentuating the participation of every land in the griefs and the valorous deeds of each other land. It was a plea for a continuation in peace of the amity that sprang from the tumult of battle.

It is to be noticed that the condemnatory words alluded to have come from writers of a peculiar stamp. In the recent war many of them were advocating the cause of Germany. They were doing this openly, or covertly in the transparent guise of pacifists. Now that the war is over, they are finding new ways to nag. They sneer at love of country. They bolster up the hideous thing known as bolshevism, and seek to blight the world by spreading the poison that had made Russia a tragedy.

These people do not count. They do not belong. They are a class apart. The American continues to love his country, and loving it, extols the soldiers who died for it. His affection is not selfish, for at the same time, he stretches a hand in friendship to the nations over seas, and mourns with them when they are in sorrow.

A Chicago attorney asserts that Ku Klux Klansmen of Texas gave him a beating and drove him from the state. His purpose in being in Texas was to defend members of the I. W. W. who had been arrested for vagrancy and attempting to create trouble in the oil and lumber camps. Perhaps the attorney is mistaken as to the identity of his assailants. Many a loyal Texan not of the clan probably would have been glad to take a whack at him.

Recently a reporter was circulating about the office seeking to find somebody who knew how to spell "icicle." He had to go to the dictionary at last. Southern Californians are not well informed as to those foreign terms.

A former police officer of Venice is in jail for having broken a man's jaw. He was fined, but could not pay. Now the victim of the damaging whack has won a verdict of $20,000 against the prisoner. The figures on the judgment look really fascinating. The value of the paper in actual money is about as uncertain as the value of a German mark.

Enver Pasha is to be sent back to Turkey there to be tried for high treason. This trip may as well be regarded as his farewell tour. Whether or not guilty of treason, he is guilty of many things for which he deserves to lose his head.

People in northern California are said to be skating for the first time in years. It would be well for them to be careful. Even if there is ice visible to the naked eye, to have much confidence in California ice would be rashness indeed.

BRILLAT SAVARIN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

They are erecting a monument in the city of Belley, in France, to a gentleman by the name of Brillat Savarin.

He deserves it.

For he is the great authority on cooking.

He is a man of one book, "The Physiology of Taste," and owes his fame to it as FitzGerald owes his to the one poem he translated, "The Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam, and as Mrs. Stowe is immortal because of her one volume, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Civilization is simply the progress of man away from the beast. It is the spiritualization of the animal. And as long as we are animals still, whatever can idealize and beautify our animalities should be considered a civilizing force.

Among such forces good cooking is not the least. The animal bolts his food to satisfy his hunger. The human being ought to taste his food and to satisfy not only his hunger but his aesthetic nature.

Those who despise feeding and think that it is superior to give themselves entirely to reading books and painting pictures are mistaken. They forget that we must feed. And the art of life is to forget the things we must do. It is to make the fundamental and irresistible instincts charming.

Brillat Savarin is the foremost Frenchman who excelled in that direction where the French people, as a rule, excel.

His book is worth reading, both from a literary point of view and from the standpoint of those who say with Terence, "I am a man, and nothing that is human is alien to me."

Brillat Savarin left France during the revolution and went to America, where he taught French and showed chefs how to cook. When he returned to his native country from his exile he wrote:

"Ah! to revivify, my sweet country, where I shall once more find the unique wines of Bordeaux and Burgundy, truffles, the tender lettuce, the omelets deure, the poulards de bresse, the gourgandes bernardines, and the bonnes menegeres! Many have sung thine artistic and scientific glory. A too long absence hath taught me that thy terrestrial gifts are equal to thy spiritual. I would celebrate the riches of thy vines, of thy fields, of thy woods, of thy hills, of thy orchards, and teach people how to enjoy them."

Thus wrote the illustrious author of "Turbot a la Vapeur" in the volume which made him the poet of the table, of the kitchen and of the cellar. Not the least significant, although its significance would be lost to a Frenchman, is the fact that this monument to him is to be set up in the place where he was born.

And the name of that place is Belley.

(Copyrighted by Dr. Frank Crane)

THE LISTENING POST

Got your energy harnessed to something?
Or hitched to something?
Or is it merely running wild like a horse on the plains?
Or water down a mountain side?

The difference between civilization and the lack of it is in restraint.
And harnessed labor is restrained energy.
For we do not let it run wild.
We hitch it up to something.
With the buckles and straps of purpose.

Just as somebody sometime went out in the open and caught a wild horse.
Noted his strength, speed and endurance.
And imagined his usefulness in drawing loads.
Carrying burdens.
Or supporting a man on a journey.

So the horse was caught and his energy harnessed.
Restrained.
Made to serve.
And man made friends with the most useful of all animals.
Excepting perhaps the ox.
Or the cow, gentle sister of the ox.
And not always gentle.

There might be a difference of opinion as to the most desirable of the friends of man in the animal kingdom.
For there are many useful friendships.
In the matter of simple companionship the dog perhaps stands at the head.

But the dog does not bear burdens or serve except in remote instances.
As in the Arctic and over the deep snows with sledges.
He serves in war as a messenger sometimes.
But as a servant he does not compare with the horse or the ox.

SONGS OF THE POETS

In City Streets—By Ada Smith (18—)

Yonder in the heather there's a bed for sleeping,
Drink for one athirst, ripe blackberries to eat;
Yonder in the sun the merry hares go leaping,
And the pool is clear for travel-wearied feet.

Sorely throb my feet, a-tramping London highways,
(Ah! the springy moss upon a northern moor!)
Through the endless streets, the gloomy squares and byways,
Homeless in the City, poor among the poor!

London streets are gold—ah, give me leaves a-glinting

Midst gray dykes and hedges in the autumn sun!
London's wine, poured out for all unstinting—
God! For the little brooks that tumble as they run!

Oh, my heart is fain to hear the soft wind blowing, Soughing through the fir-tops up on northern fells!

Oh, my eye's an ache to see the brown burps flowing
Through the peaty soil and tinkling heather-bells.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Germany is displeased that Poincare takes the Versailles treaty seriously, having been accustomed to regard it as a joke.

When cold gets below the record it is likely to be regarded also as beneath contempt.

A Los Angeles cafeteria has been held up by a bandit. Perhaps he thought he had been charged too much for prunes or something.

An "ideal marriage" in which the bride said she never would become any man's "economic slave," has gone to smash. Wife wants $200 a month alimony. Husband thinks this makes him the economic slave.

The statement is made that Madalynne Obenchain will take the witness stand, but nobody believes it.

A Chicago woman hired to "vamp" a man, got the wrong man, although he had the same name as the proposed victim. Much confusion has ensued. Professional vamps cannot be too careful.

As a twice-told tale the story of the second Arbuckle trial seems to have lost most of its punch.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LABOR'S OPPORTUNITY

(New York Tribune)

Labor long has been recognized as a co-equal with capital in the dispatch of commerce and the conduct of industry. Its right to organize and to bargain collectively for wages is fully established. Organization has given it dignity and power. No longer can it be exploited by the unscrupulous or oppressed by what some of its leaders are fond of calling predatory wealth.

All the more reason, therefore, why labor should accept the responsibility which comes with its new estate. To ask that it be left free to unite without assuming accountability for the great force it exerts is to ask for special privilege. Special privilege cannot safely be granted.

Labor's opportunity lies in taking a wise, a broad-minded and a foresighted view of its future. Only full labor leaders will counsel resistance, for example, to a law providing that labor unions incorporate, and to the extent of responsibility at least accept state regulation.

No aggregation of capital, no matter for what purpose it is brought together, is permitted to organize and do business without incorporation under state laws. The very fact that capital is power makes necessary its regulation. Incorporation fixes responsibility. It makes capital accountable for the use of its power.

Labor, like capital, is power. It is of the same economic importance. It is as much a factor in development. Yet, at present, it is as irresponsible as it was in the days of wage slavery.

The proposal that it incorporate is not intended to destroy the labor unions. It is not an attack on the closed shop. It is merely the recognition of labor as one of the great constructive forces. The labor leaders who are big enough to see that this is the case and who help to give labor its due dignity by teaching it to accept the full responsibility belonging to it will do labor a greater service than all the agitators who have ever spoken in its name.

JURY JUSTICE

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times)

If there is any virtue in punishment it is that the penalty fitting the crime and being imposed without unreasonable delay, it serves as a warning against repetition or imitation of wrongdoing. The law's delays and resort to technicalities frequently deprive punishment, however adequate it may be in a given circumstance, of the protective quality it is supposed to possess. Worse though is the failure of justice to the public through the inexplicable action of juries. "You never can tell what a jury will do" ought not to apply where facts are clearly established. But it does, as all know who read the news of trials in cases commanding more than ordinary public interest. On the Pacific coast recently, in a celebrated case there was no verdict, though most people had made up their minds one way from reading the evidence. In Chicago the other day a man tried for murder was acquitted, the award being so contrary to the evidence and the law that the judge publicly rebuked the jury, declaring "you have turned a murderer on the streets to do as he pleases." Incidents like these are not conducive to society's welfare. The jeopardy in which the particular persons were in may cause them to behave in the future, but the discouragement which is felt by police and law officers at the futility of their labors may cost the people dear. If something better than the present jury system can be devised it should be brought forward now.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"Introduced, wooed, won, baptized and wed, all in less than twenty-four hours. Some speed, what?"

Thus begins a story of a recent marriage. Written flippantly, the account was less marked by flippancy than the marriage itself. Such a marriage may have a chance in a million to be happy and lasting. This is an optimistic estimate. To those persons who still hold that a wedding is in token of a serious compact, this sort of spurious imitation seems to be frankly on the plane of indecency.

In the issue of the paper chronicling the fly-by-night matrimonial spree, is an account of the life of a couple who for sixty years have been husband and wife. The woman in giving some rules based upon her experience and observation says: "Know each other thoroughly before wedding."

A wedding between strangers is against public policy. If the strangers lack sense, and rush into a union that can mean nothing but a step in the direction of the divorce court, it cannot be helped now. There is no law to prevent a man and woman from being a pair of fools. There ought to be a law against permitting them to be spectacular in their folly.

An interval between the announcement of intent to marry, and the act of marrying, would protect the weak-minded, protect society, and promote the chances of the next generation to be born with the endowments of character and brains.

A man called his wife an elephant, indicating that her embonpoint had reached a development not pleasing to his taste. She resented the epithet, and immediately packed her trunk. Her resentment was justifiable.

There is a habit of railing against fatness. The woman who is nothing more than comfortably padded with adipose tissue, presenting a most agreeable plumpness, imagines herself fat. She is seized of the impulse to become skinny. With the ambition to uncushion her bones she subjects her body to many hardships and much violence. Perhaps she gets rid of some of the weight acquired since her girlhood. If she does, her beauty is likely to go with it, and she might as well kiss her health goodbye.

Women do gain weight with age. So far as known they always have done so. But always they have remained charming, and their presence has been one of life's chief joys. If they have an idea that they must expose the prominences of their skeleton in order to be loved and admired, they are mistaken, that's all.

Returning to the starting point, a man who would term his well-nourished wife an elephant, is too mean to be discussed.

Japan has yielded the cables in Shantung. This is a triumph for the friends of China. It seemed at first to be the Japanese idea that it could say that Shantung had been turned back to the owners, thus satisfying a popular demand. At the same time Japan was to occupy Shantung, and keep possession of the appurtenances useful in conducting business there. That was theory, and now Japan is finding that practice is what is desired of it.

Too great a faith is possible. A Toronto student swallowed something that had been sent to him as a beauty powder. It was guaranteed to change his complexion within twenty-four hours. Long before the expiration of that period it had killed him.

Fumes from brandy killed a man at Sacramento. The fumes had come from twelve gallons of mash that were near the bed of the victim.

Fumes from bootleg brandy do not invariably kill. Sometimes, as borne on the breath of a drinker, they almost arouse a wish that they were a little more deadly.

Doubtless there will be wide and deep sympathy for the Armour company, the concern having reported a loss for the year of more than thirty-eight million dollars.

Fortunately by making a modest draft on the surplus fund, dividends of 7 per cent were paid. Sad indeed, were any institution to lose thirty-eight millions, and then not have a surplus fund tucked away in some accessible spot.

Evidently business is a duty and a pleasure rather than a gainful occupation at Armour's.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Friend Bill says he's going to move back to the city. He says he cannot stand the wild life of a small town. About the only sleep he gets nowadays, he says, is when he locks the door of his private office and tells his secretary that he wants to go over some reports and he is not to be disturbed.

"Me," says he, "for the tame, prosaic, unemotional existence of a large, pulsating city."

He did not think so a year ago. All his life he had lived in a town so large that at a distance the sheen of its lights at night makes one think of the Milky Way. Bill says he had looked upon himself as a dashing young devil. Every now and then he went to a cabaret with Mrs. Bill. He took in the theater twice a week. Sometimes he participated in wild parties from which he did not get home until 4 a. m.

"I used to pity my friends who lived in the suburbs," he said. "I thought of their lives as dull and monotonous. I thought their routine was the 5-15 home, dinner, an hour over a book and so to bed."

But that isn't it at all, he says, after a year spent in the suburbs. All the neighbors out there call each other by their first names. He was Bill and his wife was Maggie after the first week. If they tried to spend an evening with a book they had to go upstairs and draw the blinds. A light on the first floor was considered an invitation for all and sundry to drop in. His neighbors knew as much about him as he knew about his neighbors at the end of three months, and he says he knew a lot.

"Synthetic gin flowed like water," he says, "and no home was complete without the latest jazz records."

He had never wanted a silk lounging robe, but he had to buy one because all the other men in his set had 'em. But they had no time in which to lounge. Maggie bought more clothes than she had ever dreamed of buying in the city, where she only saw her friends now and then. They did no reading at all, because some one was always starting something, and if they did not join in the women called them "queer."

"I've abandoned my dreams of a lawn and a tree and a chicken and a dog," said he. "It's back to the flat and the protection of the elevator boy and a delightful shortage of neighbors. The suburbs are too social for a man who works."

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Thousands of almanacs have published "Herschel's Weather Table" for predicting the weather from the time of day the moon "changes." This table is sheer nonsense and the astronomers whose name it bears had nothing to do with concocting it.

More than 100,000 square miles of the United States consists of swamps, bogs or inundated land. Most of this now nearly useless land could be drained and made available for agriculture.

A few water hyacinths shown at an exposition in New Orleans war-some years ago led to the introduction of this plant, which soon became a formidable pest in Louisiana and Florida, clogging the rivers and in many cases suspending navigation completely during the summer months. Now an effective means of destroying the plant appears to have been found by spraying the hyacinths with live steam.

The practical money value of Pasteur's scientific discoveries in saving the grape crop of France was sufficient to cover the entire indemnity paid by France to Germany after the Franco-Prussian war.

ATHLETES PREPARE FOR A BUSY WEEK

Many Events Are Scheduled for Young Players Here

The varsity basketball team of the high school will play a practice game this afternoon at 3:30 with the Loyola college team of Los Angeles. Loyola college has a strong team and this will be an interesting game. The next game in the Central Basketball league, in which Glendale high school will participate will take place in Azusa next Friday, when Citrus and Glendale will mingle. Glendale now occupies fourth place in this league, the teams composing which are Franklin, South Pasadena, Alhambra, Glendale, Covina, Citrus and Monrovia.

The baseball and track teams of Glendale high school are now in daily practice. There are 35 boys in this year's track team and a number of those who have reported are showing considerable "class." The prospects that a good team will represent Glendale this year on the track are bright. Two dual track meets have already been scheduled for Glendale. The first is with the team representing Pasadena high school on February 2, and the other is with Covina high school on February 8. The big Southern California track meet will be held some time in April.

In baseball the Glendale boys are showing up well. Seven of the old "letter" men have reported for this year's team. These, along with the exceptionally good "fresh" material, promise to make a team that will win a number of blue ribbons the coming season. A number of practice games have already been scheduled, while the high school league starts early in April.

The Tuesday and Thursday business men's athletic class will start off in grand style tomorrow night. More than 20 of the leading business men of Glendale have promised to be in attendance and it is expected that before another week has rolled around this number will have doubled. The program that has been laid out for this team is indeed an interesting one.

ACACIA SCHOOL PLAYGROUND FUND

At the meeting of the Acacia Avenue Mothers' Club, last week, plans were discussed in a tentative way for a subscription vaudeville for which outside talent will be employed, to be given in the high school as a benefit for the treasury of the organization which is trying to accumulate a fund for next year's needs for office and playground in connection with the new building. The program was given by the children and there was a good attendance of mothers. Quite a class will be graduated from Acacia, some of the pupils going to Cerritos, some to Colorado, and some to the Broadway school.

THE ANCIENT JEST

The after dinner speaker, how we have him once again. When the cigarettes are lighted and the clock says nine or ten. How with much deliberation he arises to admit that we must not look to him for either eloquence or wit. But "the festival occasion and the feast of soul and song. Remind me of a story"—it's an ancient one and long. That's been told at every dinner since Belshazzar's feast was done. And guests sat back and waited for the after dinner fun.

And then I see it coming, see each emphasis and pause. Its skinny hands and hairless head and lean and lantern jaws. Its snaggy teeth and parchment skin, its bleared and rheumy eye. Its wobbly legs and halting gait as it goes limping by. It was old the first time it was told by Chauncey M. Depew. At the first Columbus banquet back in fourteen ninety two. And it did its duty nobly and it's never had a rest. Since the first toastmaster rose and pulled the wrinkles from his vest.

And I hear its cackling laughter, like an echo from the tomb. Then a gentle cackination starts and runs all 'round the room. There's a fat man who laughs loudly and a thin man's laugh is shrill. Yes, they laugh at that old story, always have and always will. And the speaker looks his triumph when the tempest is all through. And he follows with another that is every bit as new. And then the daily paper tells how "Jones was at his best," And that's another hoary joke and ancient like the rest!

BARRYMORE WILL STAR HERE TODAY

The most distinctive event in motion picture history is the presentation of the T. D. & L. Theatre beginning today of "The Lotus Eater" starring the famous John Barrymore. The production is unique, the story is tremendous, because of this fact the management of the T. D. & L. theatre has arranged to show it for three days. Just to give a hint of this unexpected and remarkable story, by Terhune, suffice it to say.

This man never saw a woman for twenty-five years. His father's will kept him aboard a private yacht sailing the seas all his life. Then one morning he came ashore, and met an adventuresome. That's just the start of this remarkable story.

Added to "The Lotus Eater" is a (Hans) Kilmington comedy "Rolling Stones" a Kinograms of world events and sketchnograph, "Could Columbus Discover an American."

BARBARA'S
THIS IS BARBARA'S BASKET.
Mrs. Glendale, filled to overflowing just for you with all manner of dainty eatables—tempting morsels to tickle the most fastidious palate! A veritable treasure-trove of good things—selected with ever an eye to economy as well as quality from the plentiful stocks of the Glendale markets! But, come now, as I untie each inviting, individual package I'll take you with me through my Shoppers' Paradise—as I journeyed from one store to another on my joyous quest for "goodies" with which to fill your pantry shelves!

LET ME SEE—I believe that package contains the meats I bought at the GLENDALE MARKET—in the Broadway Public Market—632-4 East Broadway! Oh! yes, it's a wonderful feast—just the thing for dinner tomorrow night, as I'm having guests, you know! For fresh meats of absolute quality and purity at prices that are moderate—the Glendale Public Market is the place! If you phone them—Glendale 1230—they'll deliver!

GINGER COOKIES
Two cups molasses, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup lard, 1 pint buttermilk, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 tablespoon ginger and the same of other spices, flour enough to mix stiff, salt.

THIS MORNING I WATCHED the baking of those wonderful pan rolls at the VIRGINIA BAKE SHOP, with the Broadway Public Market—634 East Broadway! Tomorrow, Wednesday, they are to be sold for only 8c each—VERY special! You see there are eight, big, round, tempting rolls in each pan—larger than the ordinary—and oh! so good! Stop in early and get yours, for never do they last long—and at that price! "Nuff sed!"

PEACH COTTAGE PUDDING
Make batter as for cottage pudding. Stir in 2 cups sliced peaches, bake in square pan and serve with hard sauce. Apples, raisins, currants, pears or any chopped or sliced fruits can be used in a similar way with this batter.

I WAS DELIGHTED and surprised at the size of the grocery store occupied by GRAY AND GRAY at 1127 North Central avenue. It's our neighborhood grocery—you know, and really they have one of the most complete stocks I've ever seen—a full line of staple grocery goods at the right prices—and then a dandy fresh vegetable stand! But the meat department was a revelation—just as epic and span as one's own kitchen—just a wonderful shop for good meats! Now it is for you to do your shopping in your own neighborhood!

BANANAS FOR FRITTERS
Slice bananas lengthwise, cut into fourths, squeeze over them the juice of two lemons and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Let stand half an hour before dipping in batter.

YES, I ALWAYS SERVE LAMB STEW AND DUMPLINGS at luncheon on Tuesdays—partly because the EAST BROADWAY MARKET—1100 East Broadway—the corner of Adams—offer such enticing specials on Lamb Stew! Think of it—only 12½c per lb.—or, if you like rib stew—that's only 10c per lb. But a wonderful treat is homeless beef stew—at 17½c! And, yes, on Wednesdays at the East Broadway Market they offer specials on steaks and chops—35c for loin lamb chops—and 30c for sirloin steaks! Their meats are delicious—the very best quality and always fresh! Don't forget, tomorrow is the day!

ONLY A GREAT, big slice of that perfectly wonderful cracked wheat bread—spread thickly with butter will appease the children! I buy it at the PURITY BAKERY, 718 East Broadway—and we simply can't eat enough! Another of their delectable specialties, too, is Vitamin Bread—which they bake fresh—let's see, tomorrow's the day, I do believe! Yes, every other day after Monday! The Purity Bakery is also known for the Sanitarium Health foods!

CINNAMON OR FRUIT ROLLS
Make dough as for standard biscuit, only using more shortening. Roll out flat into circle or square, spread with good butter and sprinkle with spices and sugar to suit taste. Roll into cylinder form and slice vertically. Bake in pans, same as biscuit. Seeded raisins, or currants, can be added if desired.

JUST LOOK AT THAT WONDERFUL MEAT! I bought it at the RELIABLE MEAT MARKET—1502 South San Fernando road—for you know they carry only high grade meats—the very best the markets afford—and sell them at moderate prices! Particularly since you're a resident of that section should you make it a habit to buy there!

RYE CAKES
Two eggs well beaten, 2 cups sweet milk, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons rye meal. When these are all mixed add half cup molasses and 4 level teaspoons baking powder, stir well and fry in hot lard.

DO BE CAREFUL—those are fresh eggs in that bag—don't break them! Why, of course they're the best—bought at the DANISH DAIRY—703 Center street, Burbank! That's where I always buy my milk, cream and butter, too! You know their prices are very fair—but the products are absolutely A-1—always fresh and good!

CORN FLAKE GRIDDLE CAKES
One cup flour, 1 cup corn flakes, 2 level teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 teaspoons butter, 1 egg, one-half teaspoon salt. Prepare and bake the same as plain griddle cakes. Use any kind of package corn flakes, but dry them out if they have absorbed moisture.

I SPENT QUITE SOME TIME in shopping at SMITH'S GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET—527 South Brand boulevard—with the most gratifying results! They carry a full line of merchandise of the first quality, you see, and at prices that are most certainly deserving of consideration! It will be worth your while to drop in and look around a bit—for you'll surely save money on your purchases there!

Milk, sour milk, butter-milk, water or any fluid when added to any combination containing baking powder should always be cool or cold, never warm or hot, as heat expands and releases the gases in the baking powder too rapidly.

In baking cakes, be careful not to have the oven too hot, or they will scorch, especially if the ingredients are rich. Rich cakes take far longer to bake than plain ones. In baking loaf cake, remember to place a piece of greased paper over the top for protection.
